Art Unit: 1771

1. The drawings are objected to because they fail to disclose a suitable number of claimed structures which have an outer layer of adhesive on the opposing side of the grip enhancement material from the suction cup containing side. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Art Unit: 1771

3. Claims 14-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. More particularly, the Examiner is trying to state, using the existing form paragraphs, that it is noted that none of the pending claims feature a corresponding section in the specification which contains a specific disclosure of the aforementioned claim(s). In particular, it is noted that the only disclosure found in the specification relating to "an adhesive located on the second side of said base material", a limitation found in each of applicant's independent claims, is in the paragraph bridging pages 17-18, and even here it is discussed in only very broad language where it is stated that the adhesive can be used to affix the grip enhancing material to a desired object. Since the apparent point of novelty also appears to be this adhesive layer the Examiner respectfully suggests that the specification be amended in such a way as to set forth at least each of the pending independent claims .

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 14-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Albert, US 6, 055,669. This reference, an earlier effort by the applicant and in the chain of copendency of the claimed invention is nevertheless believed to be prior art against applicant because there is no disclosure in Albert '669 of the apparent point of novelty, i.e. the presence of an adhesive layer located on the opposite side of the disclosed grip enhancing material from the plurality of attached suction cups, of the invention as claimed in all of applicant's claims. As such the remaining disclosure clearly appears to disclose the claimed grip enhancing material having a base material which features a plurality of suction cups on one side of a desired density and geometry each believed to be both disclosed as well as within the skill of the art. Applicant's independent claims 14, 26, 38 and newly presented claim 50 each lack the presence of "an adhesive", i.e. an adhesive layer on the opposing side of the grip enhancing material suitable for adhering the material to the "first object" such as a glove, but the Examiner believes that to use an adhesive layer as an attachment means for attaching the grip enhancing material to a desired object or substrate is so well known as to take Official Notice thereof. With respect to the dependent claims these also involve such well known elements or different types of adhesive so as to be if not either expressly or inherently disclosed, obvious modifications to one of ordinary skill, in the absence of unexpected results..
